AMANDA TAPSCOTT BELLIVEAU....

Amanda is a director at McCandlish Holton, where she is a member of the litigation practice group. Her practice is primarily focused on advising employers and insurance carriers on the defense and resolution of workers' compensation claims. Amanda handles all aspects of workers' compensation litigation. Amanda regularly represents employers and carriers before the Workers' Compensation Commission and before the Virginia Court of Appeals. Amanda provides guidance on advanced matters such as subrogation, child support liens, and Medicare considerations, and regularly facilitates settlement of matters that involve such concerns. In addition to advising clients on the defense of claims, Amanda also counsels employers on strategies for the prevention of workplace accidents.

Amanda is frequently asked to lecture on advanced topics in Virginia workers' compensation. She has served as both the Chair and Vice Chair of the workers' compensation section of the Virginia Association of Defense Attorneys and has been repeatedly named a Rising star by Super Lawyers. Amanda is a member of the Virginia Workers' Compensation American Inn of Court, the Lewis F. Powell, Jr. American Inn of Court and the Virginia Association of Defense Attorneys. She obtained her Juris Doctor from the College of William & Mary Marshall-Wythe School of Law, and she received her bachelor degree from Bucknell University.
